

A College Student's Guide to SNAP/FNS Benefits

What are SNAP/FNS Benefits?

- Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP)/Food and Nutrition Services (FNS) is a federal program that helps low-income households access nutritious food.

Are college students eligible?

- College students enrolled at least half-time at an institution of higher education may be eligible if they meet income requirements and certain conditions.
- Half-time means that undergraduates are enrolled in at least 6 credits and graduate students are enrolled at least 4.5 credits.

What are the SNAP/FNS income eligibility requirements?

- Income requirements are determined by household size.
- Household size is defined as anyone you buy and prepare food with. If you live with a roommate but do not purchase food and eat together, they are NOT a part of your household.
- A household's gross income must be at or below 200% of the poverty level.

Household Size	Maximum Gross Monthly Income	Maximum Monthly Benefit Amount
1	$2,510	$292
2	$3,408	$536
3	$4,304	$768

What additional SNAP/FNS eligibility requirements are there for college students?

- College students must meet at least one of the following conditions:
 - Be under age 18 or over age 49
 - Work 20+ hours per week
 - Participate in a federal or state work-study program
 - Have a physical or mental disability or condition that prevents you from working
 - Care for a young dependent child
 - Receive Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF)
 - Enrolled in college through certain employment & training programs such as SNAP E&T, Workforce and Innovation Opportunity Act (WIOA), and others
 - Participate in an on-the-job training program
